

Gildart's is No More

There are signs on all the front windows of what used to be the Gildart Chevrolet Agency, on Main Street. The signs announce that the place is closed.

And people keep knocking on the front door, enquiring about the date it will be opened again.

After 32 years of operating an automobile agency that was noted for its outstanding fair treatment of customers, Larry Gildart has called it quits.

He is unable to sell the agency because of its location. The Chevrolet Company wants a better site, for any agency in Wilmington, not one that is between the railroad and the street, with a parking lot across Main Street.

And, for the past four years, Larry hasn't been feeling well.

A couple of years ago the Jackson Brothers tried to buy the agency, and re-locate it on the old Swain House lot, across from Lucci's on Lowell Street. The Town Meeting refused to re-zone the land, which was about the only site in Wilmington of which the Chevrolet Company would approve. There was no alternative for Mr. Gildart but to close up shop, as the result of that vote.

He started in business in Wilmington in 1931, with a gas station and in 1936 he was made a Chevrolet Agency.

And now the doors of Gildart's are closed permanently. The building is for sale, and the lot across the street is for sale. For the people of Wilmington it is a great loss.

AWARDED CERTIFICATES

Thomas R. Ballarino of 181 Wildwood Street has been awarded a Certificate Credit Card for completing a course in Mathematics, and Joseph R. Robarge of Cunningham Street has been awarded a Certificate for completing a course in Arc Welding, at the Wentworth Institute in Boston. Both participated in the Evening Program at Wentworth.

LARRY GILDART: Watching his General Manager, Bernie Wagstaff, pack up, after 32 years of business. Some of the many awards given to Gildart Chevrolet are shown on the wall. Mr. Wagstaff says he is going to take a long vacation, before looking for other work.

Buy Gildart lot says Cain

Rep. Fred F. Cain told the Board of Selectmen, Monday night, in a conference that took place after the regular Selectmen's meeting that the town should purchase the parking lot, owned by Larry Gildart, across from the now closed Gildart Chevrolet Agency.

The land should be purchased immediately, he said, as a part of the new road that is planned to by-pass Wilmington Square, using Olson Road (near the Fire Station) and ending near Rocco's Restaurant, as an Alternative Route 129.

Mr. Cain expects that money will soon be available to make the purchase, and says the town should buy the land before another business is located there.

The survey for the new bridge (the Eames Farm Bridge) over the B&M tracks, planned to take the place of the Shawheen Bridge, has been completed, Cain told the Selectmen. He was unable to predict the exact date when construction might start, but he thought it would be within 'a couple of years'.

The new road, and the new bridge would do much to relieve the traffic problems in the Square the Selectmen agreed.

Red Eaton's War with the Racoon

Red Eaton, the Wilmington Milk Man who operates the Knollwood Farm Dairy seems to have won his war with the Racoon - but he isn't certain. Ask him about it.

Red still operates his business from the old Daly Farm on Andover Street, and a couple of weeks ago some of the boarders there complained about noises in the chimney, at night. Red investigated and found that a mother racoon and her kits were living in that chimney, in one of the unused flues.

The way to get a racoon out of a chimney is simple - get a man who knows how.

Red called in Otto Jacobsen of North Street. Otto is a carpenter who specializes in roofing.

Otto climbed up to the top of the chimney and took a look - a very brief look. In the top of that chimney, in another unused flue, were hundreds and hundreds of wasps - and Otto was very very careful not to disturb them. He descended from that chimney, with no more decorum than was necessary to maintain his sense of balance.

What to do? The roomers were complaining about the noise.

A visit to Conservation officers was of no real help. It is against the law to shoot racoons.

Someone, a week ago last Sunday, suggested to Red that he put camphor balls in the bottom of the chimney. The odor most certainly would drive out the racoons.

Well, Sunday is Sunday. Red had to drive to New Hampshire, to get camphor balls. He bought a total of seven pounds, and put them in the chimney.

It seemed to work. At least the mother racoon was seen coming out of the chimney carrying one of her kits, which was dropped to the ground.

Maybe there are no racoons in that chimney now - but the roomers say, still, that they can hear noises at night.

If not racoons - could there be ghosts?

1969 Tax Rate

MORE THAN $40

Forget any dreams of a $40 Tax Rate, in 1969. It will be higher. Perhaps not much, certainly not $44, which was a speculative guess made by the Town Manager a few weeks ago.

The long awaited 'Cherry Sheets' have arrived at the office of the Town Assessors. They bear bad news. The Town of Wilmington is receiving less money from the State than it did last year - the sum looks, in total $46,703.03 smaller.

This, coupled with two other figures, $79,231.75 less in receipts and $37,515.83 less in Sales Tax, means that the assessors have $125,934.78 less to work with, when they start computing the Wilmington part of the tax.

Wilmington, last year, appropriated $5,239,983.20, and in the Town Meeting of 1969 it appropriated $6,021,972.71.

The only set of figures that now have to be ascertained are those that tell the total valuation of tax property in Wilmington. That will take some time - perhaps a month, perhaps two. Last year the town had $103,000,000 in taxable property, and this year it is estimated that the taxable property will be in the neighborhood of $110,000,000. The Assessors' office will not know until after they have finished the computations on 'partial completions' - buildings that were being erected on January first.

There are a lot of those buildings - as, for instance, Volkswagen and General Electric, not to forget Compugraphic and Scully Electric in the south industrial park.

But taxes are going up this year, and more than $5 over the 1968 rate of $35.

It Was Wonderful

How was the trip?

How was the trip? That is the question that has been asked perhaps hundreds of times of the publisher of the Town Crier, since he returned from his sixteen day German Study Tour, made under the auspices of the New England Press Association and the German Association of Newspaper Publishers.

There were 54 newspapermen in the tour, all leaders in either the New England Press Association or the National Press Association, plus wives and children, making a total of 98.

The tour was organized by Professor George Speers of Northeastern University, and was, as its title proclaims, strictly a Study Tour. There was very little free time for the participants.

Every day had at least two meetings with officials of the German Government, or of some city, or with NATO or European Community officials. There were dinners, and there were receptions. There was no time for the individuals in the tour, and Professor Speers was a hard task master. He made certain that all participants attended every function.

The writer, as a member of the Rotary Club of Wilmington, had to 'make-up' two Rotary meetings while in Germany. In this he came into practically direct conflict with Prof. Speers, who, (rightfully) from his point of view, held that the conferences with Mayors and or Generals or someone else was more important.

The Rotary meetings were made up, but only by stealing away from the official party. Not only the writer, but half a dozen other Rotarians had to do the same thing.

It was an International Conspiracy against Rotary, the Rotarians in the group decided.

One of the participants who made the trip with the writer was Jim Haggerty Jr., City Editor of the Woburn Times. Mr Haggerty's name will probably appear from time to time, in the series of articles that the publisher of the Town Crier intends to write about the German Study Mission.

For a starter, the Town Crier can report that Jim Haggerty was accused of washing his feet in the Rhine, on the day that the publishers made a trip on that river. The day after that trip was the day that millions of fish were killed, in the Rhine. The American publishers, unanimously, or nearly so, said it was Jim Haggerty's fault.

And he grinned and took it.

The remarkable city of Celle, in Lower Saxony, Germany

City Planning is not always a popular subject in the United States. The least that happens is Zoning, and there are American land owners who object to being told what they can and cannot do with their land. Much city planning goes beyond zoning, into such subjects as Urban Renewal, Land Use, and projects for the future, including roads and future highways.

Germany, from whence the publisher of this paper has just returned, has much civic planning. It shows, sharply, what can be done. Indeed, in one sense, the German people have had a chance at a mass Urban Renewal project, because so much of their cities were destroyed during the Second World War. The results are remarkable and largely very pleasing.

One city that was not destroyed and yet has much to show for Civic Planning is the City of Celle, in Lower Saxony.

It is a medieval town, about 20 miles north of Hannover, from whence came the Royal House of England. King George the First was the Elector of Hannover when he became King of England, but he had many associations with the City of Celle.

Celle is located on the Lunenburg Heath, a flat land that was one part of the bottom of the North Sea. The Heath reminds visitors of the lands of northern New Jersey. There are large forest areas, all geometrically laid out and under the direction of forestry officials. Some of the forests are owned by the government, and some by private owners, but all are run in accordance with government direction.

Trees are planted, and cut, as directed, and this tends to insure that the German people get the largest possible return from the forests, in terms of lumber usage.

The land is not particularly adaptable to farming, but there are farms, which can be seen from time to time, from the highways. A considerable acreage is devoted to asparagus, in plots of land that are tended by the entire family husbands and wives working in the evening in their asparagus bed.

Unlike the American Asparagus the German plants are kept covered by earth until the day they are cut. This is achieved by having long 'hills and valleys' square cut, in the garden. The asparagus grows in the 'hills', and the appearance is very geometrical to the eye.

The result is asparagus of very white texture, with a wonderful flavor, and which commands premium prices.

The City

Lovely is the word for Celle. The houses are 'half-timbered' and were built in the 14th and 15th centuries. They are multi storied and over hang the street, and the construction may be described as half brick and half timbered.

Many of the ground stories are given over to stores, very attractive to the visitor. There are over 200,000 visitors each year, many of them from Scandinavia. Only a few Americans visit the city.

Celle, as said before, had no war damage, but after the war there was a sudden influx of refugees from Eastern Germany, which is only a few miles away.

In addition there were 2,000 British troops quartered on the city, troops that are still there, together with wives and children.

What was formerly a city of two or three thousand people suddenly became a city of 60,000. This fact presented some tremendous problems to the city government.

Celle has a Mayor (Oberbürgermeister) and City Council, and a City Manager, who is called the Oberstadtdirektor.

The position of Mayor is largely ceremonial. The current Mayor is Dr. Blanke, a lawyer, who spends most of his time at his profession, and who, dressed in a frockcoat, and wearing his badge of office, greets incoming dignitaries. The badge of office is a large gold medallion, which hangs down to his waist line from a gold chain, suspended around his neck.

The word Doctor refers to his degree in law, and should not be confused with the usage of the word in the US, where a Doctor is generally a physician.

Below Dr. Blanke in the chain of command is the Oberstadtdirektor, or City Manager, Herr Erich Jacobus Eichelberg.

Mr. Eichelberg is a man of perhaps 60 summers, of tall and precise bearing. He is a graduate architect, and has several other college degrees. He must have put in many hours of City Planning, post-war, together with the Mayor and City Council, and with the assistance of the City Building Inspector, another precise individual who was about the same age as Mr. Eichelberg.

Mr. Eichelberg's salary is not known to the writer, but there was a guess that he is paid between 3,000 and 4,000 marks a month - $750 to $1,000.

The Problem

The problem that faced the city of Celle was the thousands upon thousands of refugees from East Germany, - only 35 kilometers - less than 25 miles, away.

A lesser problem was the housing of the British soldiers and their dependents. This would be a major problem for any small city, but was minor compared to the refugees.

Not only did housing have to be provided, but work, in an area that was principally devoted to rural enterprises such as forestry and farming.

Fortunately Celle was able to provide the answers, through what was a remarkable story of City Planning.

Work for the refugees was found in other cities - some of it as far away as the City of Hamburg - 60 miles to the north.

But laying out of streets, and building homes for thousands of refugees requires money. It was provided, 60% from local taxes and 40% from the state and federal governments.

State (Lander, in Germany) and Federal monies means, in any country, Red Tape, but the money was forthcoming, and homes were built, and roads provided, for both the British and the refugees.

But not all the problems have been solved.

In the City Council room of the 500 year old Rathaus (City Hall) is a large map, perhaps 15 feet square. It can be seen, hanging on the wall, by the members of the City Council, who sit around an ancient oak table in ancient oak and leather chairs, as they deliberate.

The City Councillors are of four different political parties, but they work well together.

The new homes, and the new roads are shown on that map. Also shown are highways that are planned to connect Celle, in the future, with the superhighways of Germany, the autobahnen.

It is an ambitious program. The City Manager estimates that it will cost 50 to 60 million Marks (about $1,500,000). He hopes to get part of the money from the Lander of Lower Saxony and the Federal Government, and then 60% will come from local taxes.

Perhaps Celle will get that money, and perhaps those roads will be built.

Not shown on the map, but an outstanding problem of Celle, is that of the lovely old houses.

They are enchanting in appearance, but the populace no longer wants to live in them. They are disenchanted with the old style of living. They want modern homes. If an answer is not found, those old homes will be torn down by their owners, and new homes built on the same site.

Those old homes are an important part of the economy of Celle. It is those homes which attract the 200,000 visitors each year.

The answer that has been proposed, and which is being accepted in part, is to renovate the interiors but leave the facade, the front of the houses. There will then be 20th century homes, but with 15th century exteriors.

This is the answer that has been proposed by Herr Eichelberg and his assistant, the Building Inspector. A start has been made.

Celle is a city where the future generations may yet see the homes of the past, which has been preserved for them. And they may well approach that city on modern highways, built for the convenience of that great god, the automobile.

(Parts of this story of Celle have already appeared in several newspapers of the State of Arkansas. The story was first written by the publisher of the Town Crier while he was in Germany).

FOR SALE or RENT

Big Boom Coming Up

Faint echos of the Next Big Boom in Wilmington were heard at the Selectmen's meeting, on Monday night.

The Wilmington Minute Men have been granted permission to sell small American flags, of the type that can go on auto antennae. The sale price is to be 50¢ per flag.

The purpose of the sale, Lt. Frank Curley told the Selectmen, was to raise money to buy a bass drum for the Minutemen to march by. When they are on parades the music and beat from nearby bands disturbs their marching cadence, and besides, they want to use the drum at the Third Annual Battle of Bunker Hill, next June 17th.

The Selectmen not only granted permission without fee, but bought the first six flags.

Lowell Street Traffic

A memo was received from the Wilmington Planning Board saying that the traffic count, taken on Lowell Street by the State Department of Public Works in October 1968 was 14,520 cars and trucks. This was at a point half way between Woburn Street and West Street.

The count had been requested of Mrs. Madelyn McKie, Chairman of the Planning Board, at the session of a week ago, in which new streets in South Wilmington's Industrial Section was discussed.

The only comment seemed to be from Mr. Miceli, who said 'and LIEUTENANT FRANK CURLEY OF THE MINUTEMEN: Holds up an American Flag, of the type that will be offered for sale. With him is Private Sam LaFollette of lower Main Street.

we can't get a stop light at West Street!'

Licenses were granted to the Woburn Lions Club, the North Shore Horsemen's Association and the Jimmy Fund for Horse Shows at the Clark Farm on Andover St.

A petition signed by 24 persons from the Cedar and Harris Street areas requested action on two dogs, reported to be vicious and excessively noisy. It was turned over to the Dog Officer.

A complaint was read that discussed a radio tower on Burt Road that was said to be 50 feet tall, and used commercially, in a Single Residence A zone. A motion was made by Selectman Boylen that the license be revoked. It was referred to the Building Inspector, by unanimous vote.

Permission was granted to the Hebrew School, in North Wilmington to use the Silver Lake Beach during morning hours, from Monday through Friday. The School is operating a Day Camp. The permission must be cleared with the Recreation Commission and the Town Manager. During the discussion Chairman Banda said that the North Reading Rehabilitation Center for Retarded Children had also made a similar request.

Lest Smith Jr., representing the Fire Fighters told the Selectmen that the last paragraph in the Collective Bargaining agreement, signed last April, had not been fulfilled.

Morris told the Selectmen that there were no funds, and that the paragraph said that these could only be taken care of if there were funds. The Finance Committee, he said, reported that there was $7,000 in the fund available, but this was for other purposes. The Finance Committee could not advance money until the fund was exhausted.

The money in the fund, according to TM Morris, was for repairs, hose, gas, and laundry, and could not be used for work uniforms, an air conditioner, or a refrigerator. Miceli suggested that the matter again be referred to the Finance Committee, and it was left to the chairman to speak to that board.

Carter Lane

James Jordan of Carter Lane again appeared to discuss autos in the school zone, between Carter Lane and Boutwell Street.

He wanted the Selectmen to close Carter Lane to auto traffic, and had a copy of a ruling by the Town Counsel which said that the 'appropriate authority' could do so. The Town Counsel said that the driveway was not a 'way', and may be used for only those purposes that the municipal authorities decide.

There was a long discussion. Mr. Boylen stated that they had put up signs, and they could not chain off the area, on advice from the Chief of Police and Fire Chief.

Jordan said he was a 'concerned taxpayer' and that vandalism was going on in the schools, windows being broken and lawns ripped up by autos, and the school property

One way you can add glamour to your ceilings is to install fake beams. You can buy box-like vinyl beams that fasten to wood strips nailed to the ceiling, or lightweight plastic foam beams you can glue in place.

With either type you have to actually touch the beams to tell them from the real thing. You can make your own beams from clear 1x4s or 1x6s. Attach these over wood strips on the ceiling and finish them off with mouldings to match the trim around the windows and doors.

should be protected.

Jordan, very gently but firmly, suggested that he would be going to a 'higher authority' if there was no action.

Chairman Banda wondered if the control were not in the School Department hands.

Boylan made it clear that the Board sympathized with Jordan, and asked the Town Manager to have a policeman up at the site for two hours a day, for a week or so, to stop the traffic. He said that if the word got around the traffic might stop.

Jordan said that if the police gave out some tickets the traffic might stop. He had been talking about this, now, for four years, and the cars just passed the cruisers, while they were parked at the schools.

Buy Land?

Timothy Ring and Charles Biondo of Cobalt Street appeared before the board wanting to know if they could purchase a 'paper street' called Lawn Street, that runs parallel to Salem Street, and up to MacDonald Road. Both men have their homes abutting the street.

They were told by Mr. Banda that they should talk with the Town Engineer. They were invited to return on July 14th with the admonition that the board could not sell the land unless it had been taken for taxes.

New Business

Mr. Boylen asked if the new Firemen had been appointed. TM Morris said it would be on July 14th and that there were three. He said he was not at liberty, yet, to say who they were.

Morris asked permission for his daughter to act as a Page, at the Public Library. He said he was making the request because of the 'conflict of interest' laws. Boylen made a motion, with the ruling of the Town Counsel, that there could be an excuse from the conflict of interest law, in this case.

The meeting then went into executive session, for over an hour at the request of the TM.

Nosey Nancy

Send your announcements to Nancy, Box 208, Wilmington, or call 657-7141, and after five, 658-4865. If I'm not there I'll call you.

What fun we had this week... Jackie Garden, whom we haven't seen for ages, but who is one of the peanut butter and pickle group dropped in to the Depot to inform me that he had a 'bone to pick' with me... Seems that he read that bit about Park coming for sandwiches... and thought he better remind me that the Clan was 'closed' and the key thrown away five years ago... Then, he proceeded to regale me with all the things they'd done with the gendarmes chasing them... things that Ma never even could dream of, nevermind know about... and I'll say one thing... those were the old days... about their being good... well, they were funny! And those boys on the Wilmington force who are always so pleasant and gallant to this chick must have really been stepping out on those fair summer eves ten years ago... when they tunneled through the briar bushes in back of church street... All I can say is that it was lucky they were boys themselves! (Jack agreed to letting a Park in, so the invite still holds!)

Had the wonderful good fortune to hear Mr DeMoss speak at the service at the Methodist Church yesterday... and he was good... we certainly need more speakers of that type in town... and no doubt, all of you fortunate enough to hear him agree with me... he really lives his religion, 'that boy! And... may I add that I was really delighted to see that over half of the congregation was under 25 years... Nice going, there Kids!

Thanks to Mrs Frank Blaisdell of Main Street, who is a shut in, Nellie is one afghan and a bag of yarn richer for the Veterans this week... Our heartfelt thanks to you Mrs. B. You are so good to think enough of others to work on this project for us... Now the rest of you Chicks... Haven't seen the yarn Nor the Books... Am I hearing from you... Let's go! (Nellie dug up some paperbacks for us... and she is one of the busiest babes we know... So the rest of you should be doing something!)

Dick Ness gave me heck for saying he 'wangled' his way into the Boston Naval Ship Yard... and of course you knew that we were only kidding! But you can address him at Boston Naval Shipyard at 495 Summer Street, Boston, 02210

Jackie Garden tells us that that letter received from 'Ron', but with no return address from Nam was from Ron Wyberg, we sort of deciphered that from what he had to say about college and stuff... and we have an answer for you today Ron from Barry Hanson... but that will be in a minute...

The Drum and Bugle Corps Exhibition will be held July 6th or 7th is the rain date... and that promises to be good with the Corps holding its own so well these days!

Get down to that High School Field and let them see how much you think of them!

Don't forget to bring your hot dogs down to the Methodist Church Family Night cookout at 6 pm any Wednesday and games and fun after until 8 pm when there is an inspirational service, first of which will be 'Solomon, the Wise Fool' See you there!

Vacation Bible School for them on July 14-18 at the Church from 9 to 12, and for grades 1-4. Camp Asbury for 5, 6, & 7 from August 10-17... The kids love that one.

September 7-11, Dr Mack Stokes Dean of Candler School of Theology at Atlanta will be here for services... Plan to take that in!

Now the Boys... No 2 Son called from Fort Jackson last night and told us that he'll be coming home on leave in a couple of weeks... and then the Clan will be abuzzin... (Personally, don't know how they can buzz anymore than they are now, but I'm sure they can... Will we ever be glad! And he thinks then he might get Thailand... Think Phil Fenton is over there...

From Barry Hanson on June 21st from VietNam: 'Dear Nancy: You received a letter from a Ron now serving in VietNam. He seems to be in question as to why the United States is involving their fighting men in this VietNam Conflict.

'First off, Ron, my reasoning might be a little prejudiced because I wasn't drafted or made to come over here. I volunteered for this tropical paradise as you so sarcastically call it. Ron, the reason there are 500,000 plus American fighting men over here not 40,000 is to stop the threatening flow of Communism. It is true, HoChi Mien, and his followers, are nationalists, but who is supporting their cause? The Communists are. Where do you think the VC and NVA get the materials to fight this war? I'll tell you one thing, they don't go to the village store in Hanoi to get them. I don't know about you, Ron, but when some NVA shoot Russianmade Rocket at me, it answers all my questions. But you probably haven't experienced such action.

'Ron, you're another victim of the hippie-type Love and Peace Society in which we live now. You have been brainwashed, and refuse to let yourself face reality I believe in Love and Peace, but 'First things First'. The way that Communism is spreading, we can't enjoy Love or Peace until we stop it.

'Ron, if you're just going to be an observer outside a glass window looking in, my advice to you is to open your eyes and see what is happening. When you and guys like you realize what's going on then maybe South VietNam will become a Tropical Paradise, free from the threat of Communism... Barry Hanson USMC... 'Nancy, I realize that Ron is in VietNam, and serving his country, but, can you imagine it if everyone had the same views on this war that he does? We wouldn't be getting to First Base out here. I hope you will publish this letter, not to be sarcastic to Ron, but to straighten him out, and others like him... If you don't put this in the paper at least you will know how I and many others feel about this war... Take Care... Barry Hanson'

(And thanks from this Chick to You, Barry... We have a hard time understanding this over here... as well as evidently some of the boys do over there... Some kids seem to understand, like the Park kids or No. 7 Son... Bill Rice... and No 2 son of the Clan... but others find it most difficult... and the younger group hear so much of this Hearts and Flowers stuff that they are really going to find it difficult... and still they don't realize that the Communism that they talk about here is not the same cruel abusive communism that they practice over there... So, more like this from you... It was my pleasure to put it in the column... Also, in the next letter, you might explain how much poorer the poor people are over there than they are here... We are having our problems, but it seems that the American people don't realize still that they are the fortunate ones... that they have the highest living standards in the world... and that even with their boys fighting over there here they have a lot more than a roof over their heads and plenty of food on their tables! Speak up again there, Fella... More power to you! Nice Going!

It's going to be wedding bells soon for George Cain, youngest son of Rep. and Mrs. Fred F. Cain. George is the only one of the Cain children who has yet to make the trip to the Altar.

In New Zealand at some hospitals the 'No Children Allowed' signs have been removed from maternity wards.

This experimental plan permitting older children to visit their mothers after delivery is an attempt to relieve one of childhood's most trying moments: watching Mommy go away to the hospital to get that new baby brother or sister.

Most mothers enjoyed having their older children come to see them.

And most everyone agreed, doctors and mothers, that leaving the youngsters at home, nervous and anxious, was not healthy. The mothers and children and mothers are much happier with this new plan.

Let's watch for this more and more in the near future! There are many medical advancements. Get all of the newest drugs developed at Silver Lake Pharmacy, 52 Main Street, 658-4617. Open 9-10 every day. Greeting Cards for all occasions...Cosmetics...Whitman & Candy Cupboard Candles.

Rocco's Stumble - Deloury Takes Over

The high flying Rocco's were victimized by the lightly regarded Sweetheart Plastics last week, in what has to be one of the biggest upsets of the year.

Manager Jack Florence of Sweetheart Plastics is doing an outstanding job managing the best Sweetheart Plastics team any one connected with the league can remember.

DeLoury Construction, a team composed of pitcher Jim Murray, and veterans Dick Ethier, Joey

Beaton, Butch McFeeters and recent high school grads Jim Tildesley, Dan O'Connell and Ed Harrison, form a speedy defensive team, allowing the lowest runs against any of the teams DeLoury is holding the opposition, to 5 runs per game.

Plaza Texaco, which was off to a poor start, is beginning to flex its muscle. A veteran team, managed by Jack Pellerin, it lists such well known hitters as Jerry O'Reilly (leading the league with five home runs), Dave Newhouse, Billie Ritchie, Dennis DeMaggio, Jim and Jack Gillis, and Jack Knowlton, one of the top rated pitchers in the league.

Manager Mike Calra of the Sons of Italy team has been hurt by the loss of Bob Flores, an outstanding fielder. Bob is home with mononucleosis.

Ken Simard has been pounding the ball for Paul Burke's National Polychemicals. Shortstop Steve Lein from Sweetheart Plastics and Buzzy Bates from George Foley's Knights of Columbus are two of the new ball players in the league. They are both outstanding and will have to be given strong consideration for the All Star team to be selected at the conclusion of the season.

A home run hitting derby is planned for July 20 (Sunday) between the regularly scheduled double header. Names of the hitters are to be announced.

Rosters are now open for a one week period for any resident interested in playing with the league. Please call Jim Tighe, 658-2587.

Crusaders will be Hosts, next Week

On Friday evening, June 27th at the Cawley Stadium in Lowell, the Wilmington Crusaders continued their winning streak by taking First Place in a contest hosted by the P.A.V. Rangers of Lowell.

In their four competitions this season the Crusaders placed second in the first contest, and have placed first in the last three. There are only two corps that the Crusaders have not defeated in the Class B Division of the Mayflower Circuit. As yet they have not competed against the Salem Rockets, nor the Lynn Continentals. From the strength shown thus far it is believed that the Crusaders have the ability to defeat either team.

The corps that poses the greatest threat to the Crusaders becoming the Class B Mayflower champions this year is the second place winners of Friday night, the Dantes from Hyde Park. The local corps bested them by only eight tenths of a point, and after they had received congratulations from the Dantes they were also told to be ready for a right race, all the season. Both corps are easily 10 points ahead of the third place Regal Crownsmen of Rhode Island.

The Crusaders will compete on Saturday in Laconia N.H., hosted by the Lake Regionnaires, also a Mayflower contest.

On the 13th they will again compete in the Eastern Mass Circuit, where their abilities will be tested against other corps, who do not belong to the Mayflower.

Home on July 11

The next appearance for both the Crusaders and the Swordsman will be the contest on July 11th at the Wilmington High School field, starting at 7 pm. The contest will be hosted by the Wilmington units.

It will be an excellent opportunity for Wilmington residents to see their own winning drum corps, as well as the junior corps, the Swordsman. Both will be on exhibition that evening. The host corps do not enter the competition.

Last Sunday the Crusaders participated in the huge 250th Centennial Parade in Bellingham. Out of the large contingent of Class B entries, the Crusaders again proved their abilities by placing third.

The Swordsman, who belong only to the Eastern Mass Circuit, have a long lay-over between contests, but will compete again on the 18th of July, at Russel Field in Cambridge.

KOKO OF ASSONATE, C.D.X., owned by Mr and Mrs Al Smith of 5 Faulkner Avenue, won First Place, Utility Class Working Dog, for the Bay State, in the annual German Shepherd Dog Show, held in Wellesley on June 14th. He is eight years old, and was out of competition for two years, because of a leg injury. He returned to the show ring this year.

Mr Smith is a mathematics teacher, in Boston.

An Automobile Accident in Berlin

The German Study Mission of the New England Press Association arrived in Berlin late in the evening of June 16th, and it was 10:30 pm before everyone was in his hotel.

The hotel was only one block from the Kurfurstendammstrasse, which is the principal street on which the people of Berlin do their evening walking.

It is a busy place. Sidewalk cafes abound, and people sit and sip, while they watch four streams of traffic in each direction, in the street, and hundreds of walkers on the sidewalks.

Four men of the study group, including the writer and Jim Haggerty of the Woburn Times, soon made their way to the 'Ku-damm' as it is called by the American GIs, and were seated at one of the outdoor cafes, engaging in the Berlin sport of 'people watching'.

At about one a m there was an auto accident. It is worth reporting.

A Volkswagen 'bug', turning off the Kudamm, struck another bug, and turned it over.

Jim Haggerty jumped up and galloped over to watch from a near vantage point. The remaining three sat in their seats in the sidewalk cafe, to watch from a more distant vantage point.

Within sixty seconds the first police cruiser arrived, little blue light on top of the car flashing at about 90 flashes a minute.

It was a VW Bug.

Within two minutes there were three police cruisers, all with flashing lights, and all VW Bugs.

Then came the ambulance, and the wrecker. They were present within three minutes. They were VWs too, box type, and of course flashing lights, this time yellow.

Before five minutes had elapsed the City of Berlin Street Department was present, in the form of five yellow helmeted men, who arrived in a VW box type.

It took only a couple of minutes to get the injured on their way to the hospital, to take away those two VW bugs, and for the men to sweep and clean the street of all glass and litter.

Ten minutes after the accident the traffic was again streaming along at 50 kilometers an hour (38 mph), and we newsmen joked that the case was already being tried, before a judge, somewhere in Berlin.

Five teen-age honor students representing five New England states left for Germany last Sunday, as guests of the 1969 Volkswagen Youth Exchange Program. They were honored by a lunch at the Volkswagen Northeastern Distributor Inc. headquarters in Wilmington before they left.

Sam Tucker, Vice President and General Manager, was the host.

This is the eighth year that Volkswagen has had a Youth Exchange Program. A group of German students will visit the US in July to spend the summer months with families of their German counterparts.

The students are accompanied by 33 others, participating in the Youth Exchange. Co-operating in the sponsorship with the local Volkswagen dealers and Northeastern is Volkswagen of America, in Englewood Cliffs, N.J.

Honored by Volkswagen Northeastern at the luncheon were:

Jane West, 16, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter West of Norwood.

Penelope Munson, 15, daughter of Mrs. William Munson of East Greenwich, RI.

Thomas Dempsey, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Dempsey of Nashua, N.H.

Jill Skillin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Skillin, Falmouth, Me.

Leslie Belden, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce K. Belden of Rutland, Vermont.

The American Youth Exchange students will spend a week with their German counterparts in Germany and attend school with them, before the Germans leave for the United States. The Americans will fly home on August 28, and have a similar week with their German house guests, before they fly home on September 6th.
